How to Teach the Language of Problem Solving:

An Introduction to Executive Functions, Jonathan Miller, Ph.D., LP, ABPP/CN

This presentation will outline the development of Executive Functions; describe the challenges in teaching children who have difficulty learning strategies from experience; and discuss specific interventions for teaching problem solving strategies to children.

Jonathan Miller is a Board Certified Pediatric Neuropsychologist at Children's Hospitals and Clinics of Minnesota. He works closely with the Minnesota school system and has been an invited speaker to a number of school districts to discuss the impact of neurological and developmental disorders on learning. He is also a primary assessment supervisor for the psychology departments APA-accredited Internship Program.
